October 7, 1920 – March 10, 2012

Marian Reesor was born at Consul, Saskatchewan on October 7, 1920. In August of 1940 she married Joseph (Joe) Reesor, and for 58 years, until Joe's death in 1997, they became "Joe and Marian". In 1941 Joe joined the RCAF so farming was put on hold while he was stationed at various bases, including Calgary, until the war ended in 1945.

During their time in Calgary, the first of three sons, David (Dave) was born. After the end of the war in 1945, Joe and Marian returned to the farm in Consul where two more sons, Daryl (Derry), and Richard (Dick) were born. Joe farmed, and Marian was a busy homemaker; looking after three boys, visiting friends and neighbours in the community, and welcoming what over the 35 years at Consul would have been many thousands of guests. Due to Joe's health, they retired from the farm and moved to Calgary in 1983. When they moved to Calgary they immediately began volunteer work with various organizations, and they continued with this activity until shortly before Joe's sudden passing in 1997.

Marian continued her visitation and phone call "encouragement ministry"; not only to people in institutions, or in their homes, but with people she met on city transit, in malls or wherever she happened to be.

Music was one of her lifelong joys; she constantly amused her children and grandchildren with her habit of whistling, or breaking into song wherever she happened to be; sidewalks, malls, or on the bus.

After a series of falls leading up to her near death in 2009, she moved into Father Lacombe Care Centre where the staff, daily living out their Mission and Core Values, helped her return to a comfortable degree of health. She regained her joie de vivre, her love of music, and her passion to love the lonely. After a brief hospitalization following a fall on March 6, 2012, she was returned to the care of Father Lacombe, and her family. She passed away peacefully on March 10.

Memorial services will be held in Calgary, and Consul, in late May or June.
